WALL PAPER!

We have as fine a stock of wall paper as can be found in this county. The designs are all this spring's styles and the prices we are offering these handsome prints at are wonderfully low. We are determined to dispose of this stock.

CARPETS AND MATTINGS.

It is time to replace that old carpet of yours with a new one Our line of carpets is the most handsome we have ever had and are admired by all who have seen them. We have held the carpet trade of this county for a number of years and our low prices and fair treatment have been steadily making this store the most popular.

We also have a very pretty line of mattings.

LACE CURTAINS.

Although the spring season has been somewhat late this year, our sale of curtains has been large. We have some excellent values yet in stock. All wishing good curtains at a low price should call.

M. C. TULIS.

Former Cameronites.

We notice in that excellent journal, the Punxsutawney Spirit, published by our modest friend, Col. W. O. Smith, several items that will interest our readers, inasmuch as the parties referred to formerly resided in this county:

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Klock are visiting the Pan-American Exposition this week.....Mrs. M. O'Conner, of this place, was called home to Franklinville, N. Y., recently, on account of the death of her father.....Josiah Fink, father of J. H. Fink, was quite severely hurt last Thursday. He was driving under a trestle, which was too low to permit him to pass through, and was caught and badly squeezed. He fainted from the shock and was unconscious for some time. Mr. Fink is 72 years old, but is vigorous and active.....On Monday Mike O'Connor shipped to Philadelphia from his private zoo at this place, two large wild cats which, when in good condition, would weigh 40 pounds each, and one albino ground hog. The ground hog is a remarkable specimen, being perfectly white, with pink eyes, and thoroughly domesticated. As a weather prognosticator the white ground hog excells the ordinary woodchuck as much as the white elephant exceeds the brown ones in the quality of departed souls which inhabit it. According to the Hindo doctrine of transmigration only the souls of good kings and princes animate the white elephant.

Disgraceful Fight.

Last Saturday afternoon between five and six o'clock one John Williams became involved in an altercation with John Costello, proprietor of the Eagle Hotel, over the payment of some drinks, which resulted in a fight, during which Mr. Costello received a severe blow in the face. He immediately summoned chief of police Mundy and he proceeded to arrest Williams, who resisted arrest and in the melee that ensued policeman Mundy was obliged to call on three of our citizens to assist in subduing Williams. He was given a hearing before magistrate Hacket who committed him to jail.

It seems that this man Williams is a member of a well organized gang of "toughs" who are endeavoring to jeopardize the peace of this and surrounding communities by engaging in brawls and street fights and it would be well if he and his companions were given a lengthy term behind the bars.

Fell Dead While Filing a Saw.

A woodsman by the name of James Johnson, who came here from Trout Run recently and was employed in the woods at Cooks Run on C. B. Howard Company's job, expired suddenly on Sunday morning while in the act of filing a cross-cut saw at DeLong's camp.

The deceased leaves two brothers and a sister to survive him but as their residence could not be ascertained, the remains were interred in Newton Cemetery, Tuesday, proper burial being given the deceased by his employers the C. B. Howard Company.

Big Freight Money.

Emporium is now the largest freight paying station, between Harrisburg and Erie, the Pennsylvania Railroad receiving more money from this point than any other between Harrisburg and Erie. Of course the enormous amount of freight received by Emporium Iron Company is the cause of the rapid increase.

Houses in Demand.

The demand for dwelling houses in Emporium is larger every day and not a house to be had. Hardly a day passes but some person calls at the PRESS office in search of a "house for rent."

Arm Broken.

Little Miss Rena Clare, duaghter of Mr. Clare, who works in the Keystone Powder Company plant, had the misfortune to fall a few days ago, breaking her right arm. Dr. Heilman reduced the fracture.

Kept Busy.

Chief of police Mundy has been kept busy of late in the East Ward, the floating population of that end of the city being more or less noisy and disorderly. Owing to his vigilance eight unfortunates spent Sunday in the "coop."

Children's Day.

The Presbyterian church was crowded with an appreciative audience Sunday evening, that had assembled to listen to the annual children's day services. An especially fine program had been prepared for the occasion and it was rendered in a highly credi table manner by the members of the Sunday school.

Moving an Old Landmark.

Contractor J. W. Kriner who has been awarded the contract for the erection of the new Emanuel church at this place is busily engaged in preparing for the removal of the old structure to the rear of the church lot at Corner of Fourth and Walnut streets. This church was erected in 1867 and is the oldest in Emporium.

Not Good Form.

It is a poor form nowadays to publish a card of thanks to those who have assisted in the care of a friend or relative during his last sickness or have assisted in connection with the obsequies. These are services which need no public acknowledgment. That is all understood and a word of personal thanks, spoken or written, is a much more courteous and appropriate recognition of the helping hand so freely tendered and so deeply appreciated on such occasions than any formal newspaper card.

Anonymous Writer's Name Desired.

Chief of Police Mundy would be very grateful if the party who wrote him a letter this week, concerning the nuisance occasioned by small boys shooting firecrackers and other explosives on the streets, would kindly furnish him with the writer's name in order that Mr. Mundy may confer with him. Chief Mundy is ready and willing to do all in his power to abate this nuisance and would like to gain the co-operation of the anonymous writer as well as all owners of horses in doing away with the obnoxious practice of snapping explosives on our streets.

Doing Large Business.

Since the Emporium furnace has been transferred to Mr. A. Brady, one of the best iron masters in the state, it has steadily advanced and is now turning out one thousand tons of pig iron of excellent quality every week. The high reputation of Emporium iron makes it a ready seller and it is almost a daily occurrence to see the iron loaded on cars before it is cold, so eager are the consumers to secure this product. It must be gratifiying to Mr. Brady to realize that Emporium furnace is doing a larger and better business than at any time since its erection. The reputation of this iron is good with the trade, and the future of this industry seems assured, as long as the prosperity of the country continues, and that seems assured for some years.

In Critical Condition.

John Gayney, of this place, who has been staying in Philadelphia since last April, where he is receiving medical treatment, has been located in Pennsylvania Hospital. Jos. Freindel and W. L. Thomas went to Philadelphia last Saturday to investigate his condition, returning home yesterday morning. Mr. Gayney is in a very precarious condition and his recovery is exceedingly doubtful. His disease is of a cancerous nature.

Notes and News.

Gov. Stone has signed the bill empowering the president of councils to act in the absence of a burgess.

From all reports Emporium needs a whipping post very much, at present.

Franklin Housler has repainted his residence, corner Maple and Fifth streets.

The Emporium base ball team will play at Coudersport on the Fourth of July.

Peter Schweikart has greatly improved the outside appearance of his store building by a new coat of paint.

Why don't some one build a number of houses that will rent at a reasonable rate. There is a large demand for tenement houses.

A musical cigarette box is said to be the latest thing out. Every time you open the box and take a cigarette out it plays "Nearer, My God to Thee."

The new stone pavement in front of the M. E. church was completed last Saturday. Laying of the walk was superintended by Peter Schweikart and is a fine piece of work.

Philadelphia wants the Delaware deepened so that vessels drawing 30 feet can reach the port. This clamor for more water comes with singular grace from a people who are persistently complaining of what water they have.

While cutting a popular at his sawmill in Lee county, Va., C. R. Kesterton found an auger hole plugged by a pin. On removing the pin he found in the hole five $20 gold pieces bearing dates between 1850 and 1860. The coins are supposed to have been hid there for safe keeping during the Civil War.

A Georgia editor announced in his publication that he had been kissed by the most beautiful lady in the town, and that in a few days he would print her name. During these few days, as the story goes, the number of subscribers to his paper was doubled. And when he announced that the lady was his wife the new subscribers realized that gold bricks are sold outside of New York city.

Give house to house peddlers the cold shake. Their interests are of no concern of yours. They take your money out of town and leave none, they have no business reputation to sustain and are more likely to skin you than not, there is absolutely no advantage in buying from a peddler. There is no article they sell that cannot be bought as cheap from our home merchants who pay taxes and help build up the town. This advice will apply equally as well to home merchants, who occasionally place their orders with some cheap traveler, soliciting job printing.

War With Italy.

Yesterday evening a number of Italians came to Emporium from down the line and not being used to our brand of liquors evidently got too much. Policeman Beattie attempted to stop a row when one of them fought the officer but a good "feeler" from Peter's club laid him out. This caused another howl from the infuriated gang and for a minute or two it was lively times. One Italian pulled a knife and made for Policeman Beattie and Councilman Balcom, but Frank did not do a thing but crack his heels in the air, and assisted Mr. Beattie in locking them both up for the night.

Literary Prize Contest.

Answer to question No. 3: Menendez landed fifteen hundred Spanish colonists on the coast of Florida in 1565; and they planted the oldest church in what is now the United States, at St. Augustine. The old cathedral and fort were built of coquina. Native Indians and Mexican convicts were forced to do the labor, and it took one hundred years to complete the fort, which was said to be the prettiest fortress in the King of Spain's dominions. The antique cathedral burned down a few years ago.

Query No. 4. What famous toast did Benjamin Franklin make when representing the infant American Republic at a diplomatic dinner?

The books in the Emanuel Reading Room are the generous gift of a generous man to the public. There is no charge for consulting them. This statement is made because an erroneous idea prevails that one cannot consult the library without paying a fee. Study the books freely for answers to questions in the Literary Contest.

Send your answers to box 163, Emporium, Pa. An answer went astray, last week, through omitting the number of the box.

Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell, missionary bishop of the Episcopal church in Africa, says that the troubles in that country have just begun, and that on every hand he and the missionaries who report to him can see signs of a rising of the natives against the whites.

The law of the last legislature of Kansas making it a misdemeanor to steal a ride on a train has caused the hobo army to leave that state. A few years ago Kansas was the paradise of tramps, but this law and an avowed purpose of the authorities to compel them to work in the harvest fields have caused them to leave.

A London dispatch says that paintings worth thousands of dollars have just been found in an old shop where they were doing duty as fire screens. Every time an artist becomes pressed for funds, he pulls up some moth eaten picture from a basement, "finds" it in an old attic, or does something of that sort and sells it to the gullible public.

There was much amusement among the friends of Justice Brewer, of the supreme court, at his expense, because he procured a marriage license in the District of Columbia, which is not valid outside the district, in order to be married in Vermont. Thus a man most learned in constitutional law may be perfectly ignorant of local statutes.

Judge Danforth, of the Maine supreme court, had this to say in connection with the case of a defaulting bank cashier recently sent to prison: "I wish that the law permitted me to send with the accused every one of the bank directors who, through a long term of years, expected you to do your work, live respectably, bring up a large family and be honest—all on a salary of $600 a year."

The population of Ireland has been reduced nearly 4,000,000 in the last 50 years. It was 8,196,597 in 1841, fell to 6,574,275 in 1851, and is now but 4,456,546. This depopulation finds no parallel in modern history. While the Irish emigrants have found homes in all parts of the world, they have been mostly attracted to Australia, Canada and the United States. It is estimated that there are 2,000,000 people of Irish birth now in this country.

The numerous expeditions to the north pole or thereabouts, either planned or under way, go to show that the game is fully as popular as ever. It is not that the explorers care a rap about the pole, or what is to be found there. But it is safe to assume that they are fond of adventure, and without doubt they are fond of notoriety. Hence the money expended and the risks taken for a purpose that promises no great material benefit to the world.

The American Hall of Fame has the following dimensions: Length of colonnade, 504 feet; height, 20 feet; breadth, 16 feet; length of museum, 200 feet; breadth, 40 feet; height, 16 feet. Tablets now are: Washington, Lincoln, Webster, Franklin, Jefferson, Clay, Adams, Grant, Farragut, Lee, Marshall, Kent, Story, Peabody, Cooper, Fulton, Stuart, Morse, Whitney, Audubon, Gray, Edwards, Mann, Beecher, Channing Emerson, Hawthorne, Irving and Longfellow. Five tablets are to be added every five years.

The supreme court of Ohio having declared constitutional the law of that state which makes a county responsible for injuries committed against persons by mobs, it is not probable that lynchings will be of frequent occurrence in that state. The law creating such responsibility was enacted in 1896. A year later a negro was lynched at Urbana, and under this law his heirs brought suit against the county. The lower court awarded the heirs $5,000 and costs, and this decision the supreme court has affirmed.

A Pennsylvania doctor says that appendicitis, with which women were until recently seldom afflicted, is now almost as common among them as among men. He ascribes this increase of the disease among them to the use of the bicycle, to golf and other outdoor sports. What are the women to do, poor things! First, they are tearfully and prayerfully urged and implored to engage in outdoor sports for the sake of their health; then they are told that if they do so they will have appendicitis. Life, as regulated by doctors, has complications.

THE SITUATION IN CUBA.

Compliance with the Platt Amendment Must Be the Outcome.

The new hitch in the Cuban case is to be regretted, but it has been brought about by the Cubans themselves, and doubtless will soon be removed by them. In the acceptance of the Platt amendment by the Havana constitutional convention there was an addenda which gives a different interpretation to one or two of the provisions of the amendment than the letter of that measure will permit. The visiting delegation of Cubans misunderstood Secretary Root in his explanation of some of the provisions of the Platt terms, and their notion got into the proceedings of the convention at the time the terms were accepted. They evidently supposed that the president and the secretary of war intended to remove some of the rigors of the stipulations as set forth in the amendment, and they gave this idea to their colleagues in the convention. In this way the constitution framers obtained an erroneous view of the situation, and this is reflected in their acceptance of the terms.

What the Cubans have been told now by Secretary Root is that the Platt amendment will have to be accepted as it stands. Neither the president nor the secretary of war has any authority to alter it in the slightest degree. Their relation to it is to enforce it according to its obvious letter. The function of interpreting the amendment if there be any doubt as to its exact meaning rests with the courts. Congress has the authority of making the terms and has the power to change them in either direction if it chooses. Congress is the only power which can do this. The function of the executive is to execute the laws according to their letter, or apparent letter, and if there be any need for an interpretation of them so as to clear up any doubt as to their exact meaning that work will have to be done by the judicial branch of the government.

The course for the Cubans is clear. They must agree to the Platt statute in its strict terms. There can be no mental reservations or equivocations on this point. Their official acceptance must be so plain and so explicit that there can be no possibility of any hedging by them hereafter. That they will meet the new situation in the proper spirit is probable. The necessities of the case have been pointed out to them by the authorities at Washington in a friendly way, and they have been told that the terms must be agreed to as they are laid down in the statute. The consequences of their rejection, or of a delay in their acceptance, can readily be pointed out to the Cubans. The American troops will remain in the island until a government which will meet American ideas is established, and this cannot be done until the relations between Cuba and the United States are agreed to by the Cubans on the exact lines laid down in the Platt proviso. It was the expectation that a Cuban republic would be in operation by the end of 1901 at the latest, but if there is to be any obstructiveness on Cuba's part this outcome will be delayed. Probably an amicable agreement will be reached soon. At least this is the hope of all Americans. Until this is effected, however, the United States soldiers will remain in Cuba and the United States flag will fly over Cuba's principal cities and its fortifications.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CUBA—"PATCHED ONE'S IS BETTER'N NONE, ANYWAY."

TRAITOROUS AGUINALDO.

Secret Archives Captured in Luzon Tell the Story of His Perfidy.

Murat Halstead has made an analysis of the Filipino archives captured when Aguinaldo and his cabinet fled from Malolos in the spring of 1899. The result of this study is a revelation of Aguinaldo's character that places him before the American public in an entirely new light. Among the documents captured were many of Aguinaldo's private papers and letters from the Spanish authorities in Manila, written after Dewey's victory and before the capture of the city. There are the minutes of the so-called Filipino republic, proclamations, private instructions and official reports.

These various papers prove from Filipino sources that Aguinaldo plotted treachery against the United States and in favor of Spain before the fall of Manila, that he was in correspondence with the Spanish Gen. Augustin. There are letters proving that Aguinaldo wrote after the battle of Manila and before the capture of the city that he had the hope of preserving "from the shipwreck the sovereignty of Spain in these islands." That is the kind of an ally he was of the United States.

There are letters showing that while the American troops and Filipino forces wer laying siege to Manila, the Spanish army inside the city was supplied with fresh meat through the Filipino lines on passes signed by Aguinaldo.

There is a letter from Aguinaldo to the Spanish governor general expressing a wish to enter into a "contract" for mutual advantages, and the letter was written on the day that Admiral Dewey supplied Aguinaldo with 7,000 guns to be used against the Spaniards.

Documents signed by Aguinaldo weeks before the insurrection broke out on Febrauary 3, 1899, gave minute directions for the assassination of American sentries while professing to be on friendly terms.

The captured archives also furnish the details of the agreement under which Aguinaldo for a cash payment of 600,000 pesos agreed to drop the rebellion against Spanish authority in 1897. The money was paid to Aguinaldo, and with cabinet officers he proceeded to Lingayan, where the entire party boarded a Spanish merchant steamer and were taken to Hong-Kong.

More than this, the programme was so arranged that it was not until Aguinaldo was ready to sail that he telegraphed orders to his generals to lay down their arms and surrender their forces.—Chicago Tribune.

☞There is one thing about President McKinley's trip that made it different from the average presidential "swing around the circle." The president being no longer a prospective candidate, it could not be construed as a vote-getting tour. Perhaps this will make the enthusiasm of the people all the greater, although President McKinley is a man who always arouses enthusiasm. In the western cities and towns he will undoubtedly receive the greatest welcome ever accorded any man.—Troy Times.

☞Mr. Bryan should endeavor to break himself of the habit of using the word "must" in discussing plans for the democratic future. He may keep it up until he incites somebody to refer to him as Old Musty.—Washington Post.

A MASTERLY ADDRESS.

Secretary Hay Pleads for Peace Between the Nations.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 14.—The presence of men of national prominence and the sports in the stadium attracted thousands to the Pan-American exposition yesterday.

Secretary of State Hay was the guest of honor at a dinner given last evening by the directors of the exposition to the National Editorial association. One thousand covers were laid in the dining room in Statler's hotel. Secretary Hay spoke as follows:

"Last night I looked from my window at this marvelous creation, and to-day as I have walked through the courts and the palaces of this incomparable exposition, the words of the prophet have been constantly in my mind, 'Your old men shall dream dreams; your young men shall see visions.' This idea of the brotherhood of the nations of the western world is not a growth of yesterday. It was heralded when the country was young by Henry Clay; it was cherished by Seward and Evarts, by Douglas and by Blaine.

"Twelve years ago we held the first reunion of the American republics. Much was said and done, destined to be memorable in our history, opening and blazing the way along the path of peace and fraternal relations. We have made steady progress; we have grown day by day to a better understanding until now we are looking to our coming conference in the City of Mexico, in which we have the right to hope that with larger experiences and profounder study of the great problems before us, results still more important will be reached.

"There have been statesmen and soldiers who have cherished the fancy in past years of a vast American army recruited from every country between the Arctic and Antarctic seas which shall bind us together in one immense military power that might overawe the older civilizations. But this conception belongs to the past, to an order of things that has gone, I hope, forever. How far more inspiring is the thought of the results we see here now; how much more in keeping with the better times in whose light we live, and the still more glorious future to which we look forward is the result we see to-day of the armies of labor and intelligence in every country of this new world, all working with one mind and one will, not to attain an unhappy preeminence in the art of destruction, but to advance in liberal emulation in the arts which tend to make men happier and better, to make this long harassed and tormented earth a brighter and more blessed abode.

"God forbid that there should be in all this the slightest hint of vain glory, still less of menace to the rest of the world. On the contrary, we cannot but think that this friendly challenge we send out to all peoples convoking them also to join in this brotherly emulation in which the prizes are after all merely the right to further peaceful progress in good work—will be to the benefit and profit of every country under the wide heaven. Every great achievement in art, in science, in commerce, communicates to the universal human spirit a salutary shock which in ever widening circles spreads to regions the most remote and obscure; to break at last in lingering ripples on the ultimate shores of space and time. Out of a good source evil cannot flow; out of the light darkness cannot be born. The benign influences that shall emanate from this great festival of peace shall not be bounded by oceans nor by continents."

A TEN PER CENT TAX.

It Is Proposed to Make the Transvaal Mines Pay a Share of the Cost of the War.

London, June 14.—Sir David Barbour, whom the chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, sent to South Africa to investigate the sources of revenue of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony, with the view of estimating how much they should contribute towards the cost of the war, reports in favor of a 10 per cent. tax on the profits of the mines, yielding, on the basis of the profits of 1898, £450,000 yearly. After paying this, Sir David Barbour considers the mines will be better off than before, as they will save £600,000 per year on dynamite, owing to the abolition of the monopoly in that commodity.

The Orange River Colony will be unable for some years to meet the ordinary cost of administration and pay its share of the cost of the constabulary. "It cannot, therefore," says Sir David Barbour, "so far as can be foreseen at present, pay anything toward the cost of the war."

Sir David proposes to apply all revenues derived from the sale of lands or mining rights to the war liquidation.

Financial Losses Led to Suicide.

Baltimore, June 14.—Heavy financial losses incurred in speculation, it is asserted here, caused the suicide in Pittsburg of Dr. Daly, former surgeon in the United States army, personal friend of Gen. Miles and originator of the "embalmed beef" scandal. It was given out that the suicide was the result of melancholia brought on by the death of his wife. From reliable sources it is learned here, however, that Daly had invested largely in local securities and lost $75,000.

Wabash Will Enter Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, June 14.—President Ramsay, of the Wabash railway, has authorized Engineers Patterson and Bollar to advertise next Monday in the Pittsburg papers for proposals for the erection of a bridge across the Monongahela river at Ferry street and the construction of 12 miles of railroad south from Bridgeville for the Pittsburg & Carnegie railroad. The total cost of these two portions of the line will be $3,000,000. Contracts will stipulate that the work be completed by November 1, 1902.

CHARGES OF FRAUD.

They are Made in Connection With the Sale of Government Property by Soldiers at San Francisco.

San Francisco, June 14.—Capt. A. W. Kimball, post quartermaster at the Presidio, made the following statement yesterday in regard to the alleged frauds in the sale of quartermaster's supplies belonging to the government:

"I am the officer that is concerned in this matter, but no one has yet made any inquiry of me. I am the only bonded officer at the post, and the only disbursing officer. If there has been anything irregular I would be pleased to give all the assistance in my power in the search for the guilty men, if there are any.

"All the government things sold in the pawnshops are sold by discharged soldiers from the returning volunteer regiments."

Col. J. B. Rawles, post commander, said: "All this talk of fraud is perfect rot. People have been nagging for a year on the same subject. I have been aware of the soldiers selling their clothing for a long time. One of the perplexing things in army management is to keep the soldiers from selling their clothing. I am confident that no quartermaster's sergeant or civilian employe is implicated in the selling of even a shoestring."

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Abe Abrams, son of Louis Abrams, the second hand dealer, who, with another son is in custody. Detective Reynolds reported to the federal authorities yesterday that he found 20 pairs of government shoes in a Sacramento street store Wednesday night.

Capt. Seymour, of the local detective force, said: "No one can say, in view of all that has transpired within the past two days, that frauds have not been going on. Detective Reynolds reports to me that the investigation has made a stir among the second hand stores and those who deal in the class of goods stolen from the army, and that those who have not yet been visited by Col. Maus are hurrying to cover what government goods they have. The quantities which the Abrams family were able to supply their customers makes it seem conclusive to my mind that there is some one having access to the quartermaster's department in collusion with them. They will have a hard time explaining away the evidence against them."

HE SNUBBED WANAMAKER.

His Protest Against Giving Away Railway Franchises Is Ignored by the Mayor of Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 14.—The latest move in the matter of the granting of street railway franchises by city councils was made Thursday when ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker sent a letter to Mayor Ashbridge offering to pay to the city $2,500,000 for the rights and franchises granted and intended to be granted by 14 ordinances of council awaiting the mayor's approval. These ordinances give to a number of capitalists who are friendly to the dominant faction in the republican party of this state the right to construct underground and elevated railways on streets now occupied by surface railway companies, and to build surface roads on those streets not occupied by other companies. The speed with which the enabling acts were passed by the legislature and the passage by city councils in three days of the 14 city ordinances aroused opposition.

Mr. Wanamaker, in his letter says he believes the franchises granted by these ordinances are of enormous money value; that the people will get nothing for the franchises; passengers will have no cheaper transportation, and that the only gainers will be those financially interested in the projects. He urged the mayor to veto the ordinances in order that new ordinances may be drafted conferring the franchises in question only upon the payment of a sum into the public treasury commensurate to the value of the grant.

Mayor Ashbridge last night signed the ordinances granting franchises. He refused to talk about Mr. Wanamaker's protest.

BULLETS FOR TWO.

A Montreal Woman and Her Son Lose Their Lives.

Montreal, June 14.—Mrs. J. J. Redpath, one of Montreal's society leaders, is dead in her handsome residence on Sherbrooke street and her son, Clifford Redpath, died in Royal Victoria hospital with a bullet in his brain.

About 6 o'clock last evening the household was startled by the noise of two revolver shots from Mrs. Redpath's room. On rushing in the servants found Mrs. Redpath and her son lying on the floor, both unconscious. Physicians were summoned, who pronounced their wounds fatal.

Mrs. Ridpath had been ill for some time, suffering greatly from insomnia. The surmise is that while temporarily mentally deranged Mrs. Redpath attempted to end her life and in attempting to prevent her the son was shot.

Black Smallpox Kills Indians.

El Reno, Okla., June 14.—Dr. White has returned from the Kiowa and Comanche country, where he had been sent to investigate smallpox rumors, and reports that an epidemic of black smallpox, fatal in nearly every instance, is raging among the Indians.

A Big Mining Combine.

Chicago, June 14.—Chicago capitalists are behind a movement for the consolidation of all the coal mining companies of Indiana. Options on a score of Indiana mines owned by Chicago firms were secured Thursday by John S. Bays, of Sullivan, Ind., and the combine, which is to have a capital of $15,000,000, will be formally launched in a few days. The Chronicle says: "The combination of the Indiana mines is but the forerunner of a greater coal trust that is to embrace practically all of the coal producing states."

A GLORIOUS SIGHT.

Fields of Wheat in Which the Stocks Were So Thick It Was Impossible to Drive Between Them.

To the Editor:

A gentleman from Duluth made a trip through a portion of Western Canada last summer, and writing of what he saw, says:

"Wheat, for instance, will average twenty-five or thirty bushels to the acre. I saw shocks so thick in the field that it would be almost impossible to drive between them. Winters, it is said, are longer than near Duluth, but the Japan current, warm chinook winds and dry atmosphere make the winters comparatively mild."

Thousands of such testimonies are to be had from settlers who have taken advantage of the low-priced lands of Western Canada. During the present year new districts will be opened up in the Saskatchewan Valley, and advantage should be taken of this at once. Information can be had from any agent of the Government, whose advertisement appears elsewhere in your columns.

All Astonished.

If people are too conservative they are very apt to find cause for astonishment when some person they have overlooked does something worthy of praise, or some familiar medicine effects a great cure. Such was the fact in the case of Mr. Nimrod Price of Milford, Ohio, who wrote: "My wife, myself, and all our neighbors are astonished at the wonderful effects of your Lotion in curing a distressing eruption on my wife's face, it having done what no doctor, or other medicine, had done before." If your druggist hasn't it, send to Solon Palmer, 374 Pearl St., New York, for sample of Palmer's Lotion and Lotion Soap.

Help for Women

Who Are Always Tired.

"I do not feel very well, I am so tired all the time."

You hear these words every day; as often as you meet your friends just so often are these words repeated. More than likely you speak the same significant words yourself, and no doubt you do feel far from well most of the time.

Mrs. Ella Rice, of Chelsea, Wis., whose portrait we publish, writes that she suffered for two years with bearing-down pains, headache, backache, and had all kinds of miserable feelings, all of which was caused by falling and inflammation of the womb, and after doctoring with physicians and numerous medicines she was entirely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you are troubled with pains, fainting spells, depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere, headache, backache, and always tired, please remember that there is an absolute remedy which will relieve you of your suffering as it did Mrs. Rice. Proof is monumental that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest medicine for suffering women.

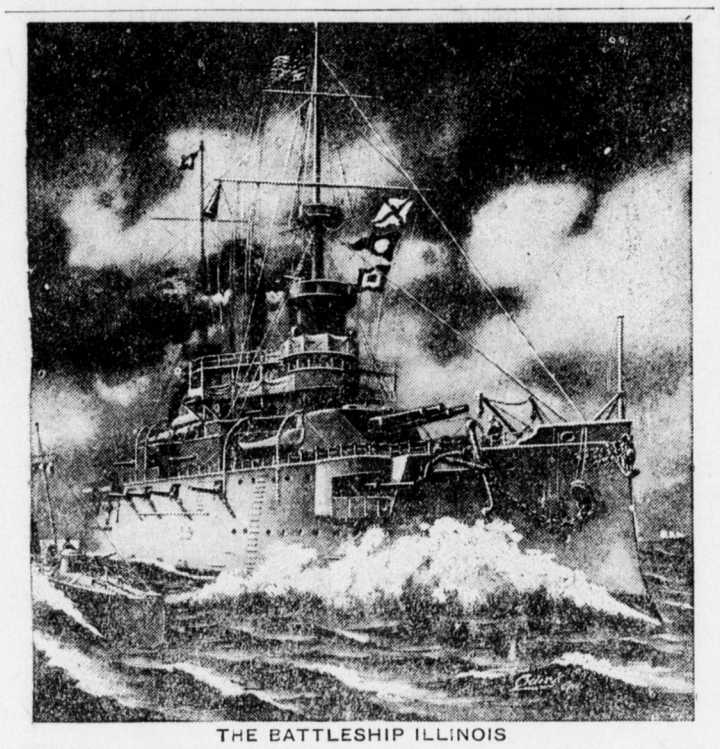
Battleship Illinois Exhibits Remarkable Speed.

In a Trial Run Off the Massachusetts Coast She Develops an Average Speed of More than 17 Knots an Hour—Fastest Ship of Her Class in the World.

Boston, June 13.—With the proud distinction of being the fastest battleship in America and the speediest of her class in the world, the new seafighter Illinois lies at anchor in President's Roads after a most successful trial. Over the government course from Cape Ann to Cape Porpoise and return, a distance of 66 nautical miles, she raced yesterday under the watchful eyes of United States naval representatives and established a new record by maintaining an average speed of 17.31 knots for four consecutive hours. Not only did she demonstrate that she was faster than any warship of her size afloat, but she proved her ability to turn upon an enemy with extraordinary quickness by describing a complete circle within 300 yards, or little more than twice her length, in three minutes and three seconds, while plowing through the sea at full speed.



THE BATTLESHIP ILLINOIS

Steadiness and reserve power characterized the performance of the ship throughout the severe test. The work of her engines was smooth and even, and the records of the day showed one-tenth of a knot difference in speed between the northern run and the return. The machinery easily met every requirement and not an accident of any kind occurred.

Rear Admiral Sampson, who was aboard, and Rear Admiral Evans, who acted as president of the trial board, as well as the other naval officers who participated in the trial were thoroughly pleased with the new champion, and as she steamed back to her anchorage with a broom at her masthead, the officials of the Newport News Ship Building Co., whose three years of labor had reached such a happy climax, were enthusiastically congratulated.

IS FULLY ACCEPTED.

The Cuban Constitutional Convention Adopts the Platt Amendment Without Any Strings Tied to It.

Havana, June 13.—The Cuban constitutional convention yesterday accepted the Platt amendment by a vote of 16 to 11. The rsolution to accept was carried without discussion. Immediately after the opening of the session Senors Tamayo, Villuondas and Quesada, constituting a majority of the committee on relations, submitted as a substitute for the committee's former report the Platt amendment as passed by congress, recommending that it be accepted and made an appendix to the constitution.

Senors Rivera, Correso, Gener and Bebau were absent. The latter voted against acceptance in the previous division. Senor Ferrer voted with the conservatives, explaining his change of attitude by asserting that he believed acceptance would be the best solution of the problem.

The convention will now appoint a committee to draw up the electoral law.

Washington, June 13.—The news of the adoption of the Platt amendment by the Cuban constitutional convention was received with genuine gratification here. The administration officials all along have felt confident that its ratification would be accomplished when the Cubans realized that this government was firm in its attitude regarding the amendment.

Now that the Cubans have demonstrated their good faith in the United States, it is expected that a fairly speedy evacuation of the island will follow, contingent only upon the establishment of a stable government in the island.

Butchertown Tied Up.

San Francisco, June 13.—Wednesday afternoon the union butchers reported that about 1,100 men had walked out, and that Butchertown is tied up by the slaughterers quitting work. Between 100 and 150 shops out of a total of 350 have retained the union cards and about 400 men are at work. The wholesale butchers, however, claim that there will be no difficulty in supplying meat to their customers. They will not furnish any to houses showing a union card. The union men have had offers of meat from the middle western states

A QUESTION OF DOLLARS.

Machinists' Strike Has Resolved Itself Into a Question of Which Party Can Control the Most Money.

New York, June 13.—The Herald says of the machinists' strike and the National Metal Trades Association's recent action:

"At the headquarters of the striking machinists in this city yesterday, a cable dispatch was received from the Amalgamated Society of Engineers in London, promising financial aid. This society is the strongest trade union in the world and is said to have over $8,000,000 in its treasury. The American Federation of Labor will tax its 2,000,000 members ten cents each for the striking machinists.

"Furthermore it was announced last night by the strike committee of the New York district lodge of machinists, that the iron molders, electrical workers, pattern makers, toolmakers and metal workers in general had promised to go to the assistance of the machinists in the event of a combination of manufacturers against the strikers. It was asserted that a general sympathetic strike of machinists on all railroads in the United States and Canada was among the possibilities."

The convention of the National Metal Trades association finished its session yesterday. The closing hours of the convention were devoted to the completion of organization and the final arrangement of plans to strengthen the hands of the manufacturers in their fight against the striking machinists. The sum of $500,000 raised by assessment is to be placed at the disposal of a strike committee to be used in behalf of the employers.

Asked as to the use of this fund, W. J. Chalmers, chairman of the press committee, said: "I suppose we will use it as the strikers do, to support their fellows, pay pickets and meet other general expenses. We used $116,000 in the Cleveland strike, where we paid some men a bonus of $4 a day. There are millions more if they are needed. We have received a telegram from the Pacific coast pledging 114 out of 135 firms to membership."

The convention decided to make no definite declaration as to the length of a day's work, leaving the question to settlement locally. After discussing the matter the following resolution was passed:

"The declaration of principles makes the question of hours and wages a local issue.

"Resolved, That this association will support any regular member in his endeavor to confirm to said declaration of principles."

Newport News, Va., June 13.—The strike situation at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co.'s yard has reached a critical stage. In addition to the striking machinists, about 500 in number, and the 200 skilled men from the electrical, plumbing and pipe fitting departments laid off on Tuesday, 150 more, chiefly laborers, were laid off yesterday.

A Terrible Storm.

Traverse City, Mich., June 13.—A heavy rain and hail storm passed over Traverse City and a portion of Grand Traverse county yesterday. One inch and a quarter of rain fell in one hour. Hail stones as large as hens' eggs fell in some localities. Fruit was stripped from trees and strawberries were cut off and ruined. Three sons of William Eikey took refuge in a barn during the storm. Lightning struck the barn, instantly killing the elder, a boy of 14 years. The others are still unconscious.

Submarine Boat Launched.

New York, June 13.—The submarine torpedo boat Fulton was successfully launched yesterday at Elizabeth, N. J. She was built by Lewis Nixon for the Holland Torpedo Boat Co., and is similar to those being built at the Nixon yard for the United States navy.

A Bank Breaks.

Peru, Ind., June 13.—W. S. Greene, manager of a private bank at Denver, this county, which was forced to suspend payment on Tuesday, and who disappeared that night, turned up yesterday. His statement shows liabilities of $6,900, with about $3,300 of assets, of which only $200 is in cash. Greene is also treasurer of the Odd Fellows' lodge. He claimed that he deposited $3,500 in a bank at Logansport as collateral for the furtherance of his ownership of a basket factory at Denver. Great excitement prevails here.

MENACE TO SOCIETY.

John Alexander Dowie, King of Religious Confidence Men.

Rules His Followers with Iron Hand, Pockets the Lion's Share of Their Earnings and Abuses All the World.

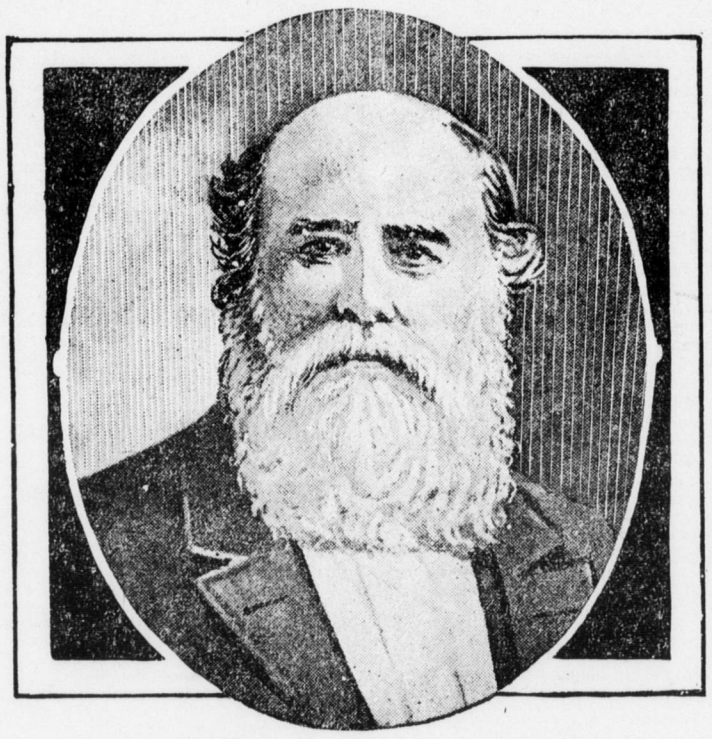
[Special Chicago Letter.]

THE religious confidence game is a money-maker par excellence. From time immemorial there have arisen so-called prophets and sons of prophets. Every nation and every sect have paid tribute or given followers to one or more impostors who posed as God-sent apostles and preached recognition and social reform by simply

"Stamping God's name upon a lie just made,
To turn a penny in the way of trade."

The religious confidence man is a cosmopolitan sort of chap; and that is why the United States, with its mixed and somewhat nomadic population, has been his favorite field of operation. And of the cities in the United States, Chicago has been his Mecca.

The oily Schweinfurth established his headquarters in the modern Babylon at the foot of Lake Michigan, after he had been driven out of Michigan, where he began operations, and his somewhat less notorious imitator, Teed, likewise selected Chicago as his headquarters. Both of these oleaginous individuals found hundreds of disciples; especially Schweinfurth, who proclaimed himself as the Messiah. Hysterical women flocked to hear him, and transferred everything they had in the world to the "community" of which he was the head—the whole thing, in fact. He might have ended his days as a very rich man had not his baser nature triumphed over his by no means inferior intellectual and business attainments. But in an hour, evil to himself and beneficial to his dupes, he established a community house near Rockford, Ill., which he called "Heaven," but which, according to others, was nothing but a harem. The people of Rockford forced him to leave their town, and in the course of time Schweinfurth disappeared altogether from public view. It has been stated that he has turned over a new leaf and is leading an exemplary life. For the truth of this rumor the writer cannot vouch, although it comes from a fairly reliable source.



JOHN ALEXANDER DOWIE, GENERAL OVERSEER OF ZION.

Before the Schweinfurth excitement had subsided there appeared in Chicago another prophet, whose name has since become familiar to the newspaper readers the world over—John Alexander Dowie. He came from Australia, spoke with an oily tongue, called himself a doctor of divinity and the founder of a new faith cure system of healing all diseases. His assumed humility secured immediate recognition. Several churches opened their doors to him, and his first proselytes were made in houses of worship whose people he has since denounced as "children of the devil." He made some remarkable "cures" and preached a series of powerful sermons. Within a short time the pauper immigrant from the Antipodes had accumulated enough capital to buy a handsome pair of horses and a carriage and to equip a large tabernacle, printing house and sanitarium in Woodlawn, the world's fair district of Chicago. These outward manifestations of prosperity were followed by the founding of the Christian Catholic Church of Zion, of which he made himself "general overseer." His "hospital" soon degenerated into a public nuisance; and the property owners of Woodlawn, under the leadership of George W. Riggs, instituted a series of legal proceedings which terminated in a victory for law and order, as far as the location of the sanitarium was concerned, but also resulted in advantage to Dowie, who posed as a martyr before his dupes, and induced them to buy a valuable piece of property at the corner of Twelfth street and Michigan boulevard, then known as the Imperial hotel. He renamed it "Zion," refurnished it throughout, and advertised it far and wide as the headquarters of the new religion. Subsequently additional real estate purchases were made and new buildings erected, and a year or so ago his people sanctioned the purchase of a valuable tract of land near Waukegan, Ill., where a modern city, to be known as Zion, is to be built.

The Christian Catholic church claims a membership of 10,000; and as each communicant is supposed to contribute a lion's share of his or her income to the overseer in the form of tithes, it is not surprising that Dowie can live in the lap of luxury. The humble exile of ten years ago assumes all the dignity of an Indian nabob and for a stranger to approach him is about as difficult as to secure an audience with the pope. He still preaches, but evidently only for the purpose of abusing those who do not agree with him. Many of his remarks are positively libidinous, others would do credit to a Hamburg fishwife. In word and action he is puffed up by arrogance, and although so far nothing has been said against his personal life his actions would indicate that he is the slave of some drug or else on the verge of insanity.

Looking at the man from a purely commercial point of view it cannot be denied that as an organizer and financier he has few superiors. Starting with nothing, he accumulated $4,000,000 worth of property in less than a decade, founded a bank conducted for his personal benefit, and laid the foundation of what may become a prosperous and important manufacturing town. In spite of opposition from press and pulpit he is holding together thousands of men and women who would prefer death to the loss of their faith. That such devotion should turn the head of any man is not unnatural; nor is it surprising that Dowie considers himself a second Elijah and the object of many of the prophecies of the Old and New Testament. As the head of the most perfect religious oligarchy of our day he occupies a position without parallel in the history of this or any other country.

Much of his success is due to hypnotic power, which he possesses in a remarkable degree. A vast percentage of the so-called "cures" performed in the early days of the movement were due to this force, and to it he owes his fame as a healer. His unprecedented financial triumphs are the result of nerve and the gift of selecting competent assistants. It is said that in employing heads for the various departments of Zion he has not made a single mistake, which, if true, stamps him as a wise judge of human nature. The men intrusted with the management of the vast machinery of the Zion organization are paid liberal salaries—more than they could earn elsewhere—and thus self-interest is made an ally of religious prejudice.

Attempts to bring the Zion bank under state supervision have been foiled by the clever managers of the institution, as well as honest endeavors to secure a statement of its resources and deposits.

The numberless slaughter of innocents—men, women and children, who die by the score, and might have been saved by rational medical treatment—has attracted considerable attention, but thus far the law has not been able to protect the victims of Zion fanaticism. Very recently the wife of one of the church's most prominent officers, H. Worthington Judd, died under the most distressing circumstances, after Dowie had "prayed" for her recovery. Physicians of all schools are unanimous in asserting that the woman's life could have been saved. At the coroner's inquest, her husband volunteered the information that his wife had not asked for medical aid, and if she had he would not have consented to her receiving it. Such is the bigotry of the followers of Dowie. This same Judd, by the way, is the man who assisted Dowie in giving an alleged expose of Free Masonry several months ago. He had been a Mason for many years, but Dowie convinced him that all Masons are "devils" and "children of the devil," hence he considered the act of violating his obligations as one of merit and entitled to Divine reward.

Such is, in brief, the character of Dowie and the work he is doing. How much longer his reign may last it is hard to say; but that it will end ignominiously may be taken for granted, because no system of religion based on personal aggrandizement and the storing up of wealth for wealth's sake has ever endured.

BUSINESS.

Greater Confidence Prevails and the Labor Situation Is Gradually Improving.

New York, June 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Confirmation by the agricultural bureau of recent private estimates of the wheat crop, has given to business a tone of greater confidence. Retail operations both east and west are larger and distribution of merchandise by the wholesale trade is increasing in dry goods and boots and shoes. The labor situation is gradually mending, with the appreciation of the fact that, in some directions manufacturers would be glad of a temporary shut down of works.

Pig iron production on June 1 was at the rate of 314,505 tons weekly. This establishes a new high water mark. An interesting feature of the situation is the decrease of furnaces in blast to 252, which is 44 less than were actively employed February 1, 1900, when the weekly output was 298,014 tons.

Seasonable weather has aroused the dry goods markets. There is not yet such activity that dealers are overwhelmed, but the various divisions of manufacture are fairly occupied and heavy supplies of print clothes at Fall River have decreased. Forwardings of footwear from Boston have averaged over 100,000 cases weekly for some time, and shops are well engaged. Prices are steady.

Wheat declined to a more reasonable level with withdrawal of speculative support. The government report of condition on June 1 was chiefly responsible. A crop this year equal to the greatest ever harvested was indicated by the official statement, and as department figures have generally proven below the final yield, there was heavy selling of options, with a fall below 80 cents for cash wheat at this city.

Failures for the week numbered 179 in the United States, against 162 last year, and 23 in Canada.

FLAG DAY.

The Anniversary of the Birth of "Old Glory" Is Fittingly Observed.

New York, uJne 15.—The annual meeting of the American Flag Association was held in the city hall Friday. This association is a delegate body composed of "flag committees" of 13 members each from 57 veteran, military, patriotic and historical societies in all parts of the country. Its special object is to prevent the desecration of the flag and to promote popular reverence for the emblem of the nation.

The president's address showed that through the efforts of the association, legislation for the protection of the flag from desecration had been obtained in 19 states. A resolution was adopted urging all patriotic organizations to ask for national legislation for the protection of the flag.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 15.—Patriotism was the theme at the Pan-American yesterday. All paid tribute to the stars and stripes. The formal exercises were held in the Temple of Music under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Grand Army of the Republic and other patriotic societies. Lieut. Gen. Miles was received with applause, the entire audience rising to their feet and cheering him. Gen. Miles reviewed the history of the flag.

Washington, June 15.—Flag day was appropriately celebrated in the immense audience hall of the pension bureau Friday. Commissioner Evans and other officials and clerks and many of their friends congregated there to listen to a concert which was patriotic in tone. The program closed with the singing of "America," in which the entire audience joined with splendid effect. The big building was appropriately decorated.

Found Five Indictments.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 15.—Five indictments were returned Friday by the grand jury which has been investigating an alleged waterworks scandal. The names of the indicted men are: Thomas F. McGarry, Stilson V. MacLeod, Lant K. Salisbury, Gerrit Albers and Henry A. Taylor, of New York. It was expected there would be a dozen true bills returned, among them a number of aldermen. Taylor's arrest was ordered in New York by wire. The local men are now in custody.

The Woodmen's Convention.

St. Paul, Minn., June 15.—At Friday's session of the convention of Modern Woodmen of America, Indianapolis was selected as the place of meeting in 1903. An application from underground miners for permission to join the order was refused. The contest of the uniformed teams continued at Camp Northcott. The Pontiac, Ill., team took the lead in the competitive drill. The score was 99 1-40, the highest that a Woodmen team ever attained.

Would Not Object to an Ocean Race.

A CRASH IN A RIVER

A Big Ferry Boat Rams the Steamer Northfield.

THE NORTHFIELD SINKS.

A Disaster on the East River, New York City.

SEVERAL LIVES WERE LOST

Estimates Vary Greatly as to the Number of People that Were Drowned—Hundreds of People Were Rescued from the Sinking Steamer.

New York, June 15.—The wooden been in the service of the Staten sidewheeler Northfield, which has Island Ferry Co. for the past 38 years, was rammed last night by the steel-hulled propeller Mauch Chunk, used as a ferry boat by the Central Railroad of New Jersey. The collision occurred just off the Staten Island ferry slip, at the foot of Whitehall street, and in less than ten minutes afterwards the Northfield, which was crowded with passengers, sank at the outer end of the Spanish line pier in the East river.

The Mauch Chunk, which was badly damaged, landed the two dozen passengers who were aboard of her. Over a hundred of the passengers of the sunken Northfield were dragged out of the water by people along shore and the crews of the fleet of river tugs which promptly responded to the ferry boat's call for help. A few of the Northfield s passengers were hurt in the accident and the police believe that some lives were lost.

Capt. Daniel Cully, of the tug boat Mutual, who saw the ferryboats crash together, says that immediately after the collision between 25 and 30 of the passengers leaped into the water and that many of those perished. Capt. Gully also declares that he is sure 100 of the Northfield's passengers were drowned. The captains of other tug boats who were early on the scene, however, are inclined to think that the disaster was not so serious as regards the loss of life.

The reason for such a difference of opinion as to the extent of the disaster is that the wildest excitement prevailed on the Northfield. The tug Mutual saved in all about 75 persons from the Northfield and the tugs Unity and Arrow saved between them 150 persons. Two policemen of the Old Slip station claim to have rescued nearly 30 people.

As soon as the crowd which had followed the sinking ferry boat along the river front were able to render aid they worked with a will, and in many instances men sprang into the water to save life. The greatest service was rendered by the tug boats, which as soon as it was possible circled around the Northfield and made a bridge to the Spanish line pier and men and women clambered over the tugs to the shore.

While the Northfield was well supplied with life preservers, which were stored in out-of-the-way places, not more than two dozen of the passengers were able to get the life belts on. This state of anairs was because the life preservers were not handily obtainable and the wildest panic followed when the hundreds of passengers realized their danger. This was only a few minutes before the Northfield sank to the bottom of the river, and then all who had not jumped to the tugs found themselves in the water.

The swift running flood tide and the question of which boat had the right of way was the cause of the disaster. Capt. Abraham Johnson was in charge of the Northfield and Capt. S. C. Griffin was in command of the Mauch Chunk. Each lays the blame of the collision on the other.

As the bumping of ferry boats is not unusual in this harbor, the passengers on the Northfield did not for a minute or so realize the seriousness of the collision. When, however, two firemen ran up on deck to save themselves from the inflow of water and the Northfield was being driven full speed up the [illegible] river instead of down to... Island and all the time screaming for help, they knew that something serious had happened. Then commenced the panic, which continued until the Northfield went down. At no time was the Northfield more than 500 feet out in the river beyond the bulkhead line, but the tide was running with the velocity of a mill race, and had the vessel sunk out in the stream only the tugs would have been able to give assistance.

There were 12 teams on the Northfield and they all perished. The officials of the Staten Island ferry boat said that there were probably not over 600 passengers on the Northfield at the time of the collision. The passengers say that the crowd numbered fully 1,200 men, women and children.

The Democratic party has of late expressed considerable love for the old soldier, but they failed to show it when the bill making an appropriation for a memorial building on Gettysburg battlefield was before the House, says the Harrisburg Telegraph. The word was passed around among the Democrats by their leaders that this was a bill that must be defeated because it had been introduced by a Representative who had incurred their displeasures and they were going to permit the old soldier to stand between them and their revenge. In this they were aided by some of the insurgents, but it must be said to their credit, that some of the Democrats refused to take orders and voted for the bill, incurring the wrath of their Democratic colleagues. Representative Haag, who aspires to Democratic leadership, but who up to this time has only made his extreme partisanship obnoxious, asked why there should be a memorial on the Gettysburg field, and Representative Voorhees told him very sharply that it was because it commemorated the services of the many Pennsylvanians who had died in the famous battle, and intimated that it was in a war that was waged against the Union by Democrats. The shot told. But the Democrats as a body, with few exceptions, chose to show their old time dislike for the old soldier and voted against the bill. After the attempted defeat of the measure a Democrat who had voted for it remarked that the Democratic party was going to try to win the next Governor's fight, but if its members expected to win after turning down the old soldier they were daft.

After an absence of twenty-seven years in the "big west" Almon J. Williams, a former Cameron county teacher is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Williams at this place. He was in the head end collision between the Philadelphia flyer and a freight at East Aurora on Thursday evening, but escaped with slight bruises. He thinks things have improved (?) considerably since he left, notably: the new railroad and the cutting off of the timber along the stream. He is incidentally taking a few fish (not enough to break the law, however,) and rambling over the old familiar grounds of his boyhood. His home is at Bradley, South Dakota.

Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sir: Perhaps you are going to paint your house, and don't believe in Devoe. We'll make you an offer:

Paint half your house lead and oil; the other half Devoe lead and zinc.

In three years the lead and oil half will be hungry for paint; the Devoe half will turn water as well as when new.

If not, our agent will stand by this: "If you have any fault to find with this paint, either now in the painting or hereafter in the wear, tell your dealer about it.

"We authorize him to do what is right at our expense."

Devoe lead, and zinc holds color better than lead; turns water twice as long.

Yours truly,

Miss Grace Bardwell, who during the past year has been making her home with her brother Dr. E. O. Bardwell and wife, left last Monday to spend the summer at Jamestown, N. Y.

Mrs. J. W. Snyder and two daughters are visiting relatives in town for a week. Her husband, Dr. J. W. Snyder, who is deputy U. S. Marshal, has located in Scranton, to which city they will move from Pittsburg in August.

J. M. Butler the new proprietor of the Hotel Connolly, is in the harness and is working into the ways of his patrons in excellent shape. Mr. Butler intends to run the business for the benefit of his patrons and to the satisfaction of all concerned.—Port Allegany Press.

Mrs. R. W. Robinson and daughter Florence left last Thursday for an extended visit with Mr. Robinson's parents near Williamsport. They expect to be gone about two months. In the meantime Mr. R. will keep bachelor's hall. When in need of a good square meal give him a call.

The Pittsburg Leader, of June 9th issue, devoted considerable space to the literary ability of Miss Agnes Murphy of London, who was a guest of relatives in that city. Miss Murphy is a first cousin of Mrs. Ora McKean of Driftwood and Michael Murphy of this place. She is a writer of note and is the only woman who ever edited a prominent funny paper. For several years she was the editor of Melbourne Punch, which is a counterpart of London Punch. She was born in County Clare, Ireland, and went to Australia at an early age and became connected with Melbourne and Sidney papers as a society writer. She gave the first paper read before the Austrial salon a now famous organization of the antipodes, its subject being "Australian Federation," which she treated very cleverly. In addition to literary work for London publications, Miss Murphy is the London correspondent of a number of Australian papers. Besides being a member of the Austral salon she belongs to the Royal society and the Shakespeare society of Victoria; the Author's society of London, and the Incorporated Society of Authors, of London. One of her recent books is "One Woman's Wisdom." The London papers fracetiously described her as "pen lady in chief to Melbourne society" and "high priestess of the Austral salon."

The funeral was largely attended on Monday afternoan, Rev. Faus, pastor of the M. E. Church officiating.

Mrs Housler was a lady of sterling worth. Although a great sufferer for months, she patiently waited the summons to call her home. She was greatly loved by all, and those who knew her best, loved her most.

None knew her but to love her,
None named her but to praise."

A large number of friends from Emporium attended the funeral.

Completion of the State Building at Pan-American Exposition.

The Pennsylvania State building at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo is about completed and ready for the reception of guests, which is about the quickest piece of work on the Exposition grounds. There yet remains some work of minor importance, but nothing that will interfere with the comfort of Pennsylvanians who will always find a welcome. The furniture was placed in the building last week and the matting has been laid on the floor, so that there is an inviting air about the structure. The building was the last to be started on the grounds and the site had not been selected until all of the other buildings being erected by States were in course of construction. The Michigan building was dedicated to-day, but it is far from being completed, while the Ohio building, which was under roof when the Pennsylvania building site was selected, is not yet finished, and the Ohio people were astonished to see Pennsylvania come in and rush things as her commission did.

The sub-committee recently appointed, consisting of Auditor General Hardenbergh, State Treasurer Barnett and Speaker Marshall, will meet this week and select a day to be known as "Commission Day," when all of the commissioners will be present, and a day to be known as "Pennsylvania Day," when all the railroads will run special excursion trains at small fares from all parts of Pennsylvania. It is expected that a great crowd will be present. There will be orations, addresses and special music, and Pennsylvania will show the New Yorkers and others that the old Keystone State is on the map to a very large extent.—Monday's Harrisburg Telegraph.

A Windsor Girl's Success.

From the Winsor Tribune.

Recent New York papers contain lengthy reports of the closing of the winter term of the various dramatic schools of that city. One of the most pleasing of those events took place at the Berkeley theatre, where the pupils of the "National Conservatory of Dramatic Art" gave a public reheasal in the presence of a very critical audience, including many theatrical managers. The honors of the day were easily carried off by Miss Cecil March, who took the parts of Lady Teazel in Acts I I and I I I of the "School for Scandal," and Mrs. Norwood Jones in a farce comedy. No better lady Teazel was ever played in New York by any graduating pupil of a dramatic school, and her perfect rendition of the courtly old time English society women was acknowledged by the frequent applause. But it was as the modern English society woman, Mrs. Norwood Jones, in Sir Charles L. Young's farce comedy, "Petticoot Perfidy," that Miss March showed to the greatest advantage. Exquisitely gowned and with a queenly air and carriage, she played the part as only an Euglish woman could do, and was rewarded with the cordial appreciation of her critical audience. Miss March's initial success stamps her as a young lady of marked dramatic ability, with promise of great success upon the stage. Canadians will watch her professional career with much pride. Cecil March is the stage name of Miss Aimee Cecil Jones, of Windsor, and a host of friends throughout the maritime provinces will heartily rejoice in the success of this gifted young lady.

Miss Jones' Emporium friends will be pleased to learn of this gifted young lady's success.

THE HAVEN OF DREAMS.

When the weary day with its toil is o'er
And darkness broods over earth once more,
We gladly slip through the gates of night,
And sail for a mystical shore.

In the soft-winged shallop of sleep we glide
O'er a silent sea with a rhythmic tide,
That lulls to rest each throbbing woe
Our aching hearts may hide.

And though from afar no beacon gleams,
Nor mariner's star sheds its guiding beams,
Yet ever the unseen ships go by,
Seeking the haven of dreams.

And when we've entered that haven fair,
The wonders untold that await us there!
Back in the meadows of childhood we roam,
Basking again in the lovelight of home.

The dear ones we've lost are with us once more,
Just as we knew them and loved them of yore;
And none ever doubts all is not as it seems
While we linger entranced in the haven of dreams.

So it seemeth to me that some shadowy night
When death draws the curtain we'll slip out of sight,
And sail in a shallop like that we call sleep,
To a wonderful land where no eyes ever weep,
And the haven of dreams lieth white.

As Frances hurried homeward, choking and sick with her sorrow, she found herself caught in the whirls and eddies of a great crowd and borne along helplessly past her street. Men carried torches and were cheering themselves hoarse, while horns added their din to the confusion. Upon every hat were the red letters "M.M." It was a demonstration by the famous "Minute Men," who rose in every southern city as they had risen nearly 100 years before when the drums beat. Suddenly she was jammed against a carriage, the progress of which had been stayed by the crowd. Its sole occupant was a pale, silent man. In the glare of the torches his face exactly filled lines indelibly fixed in her memory by the brief flame of a match; it was the face of Richard Somers, cold and immobile. Upon the seat by his side was a traveling-bag; his eyes looked out calmly, almost coldly, over her head. He was not southern, he was not a Virginian, and the hour awoke no response within his heart. Impulsively, and forgetting, she stretched her hands upward, but memory returned and checked the words that rose to her lips. Only an inarticulate cry burst from them, a cry low and half smothered in the roar of voices. Yet low as it was, it reached the occupant of the carriage. Something in that voice, a tone, a vibration, touched a memory-cell. He turned quickly and looked back; a girl holding desperately to the arm of an old negress was being borne along by the tumultuous human wave. For an instant only he saw her white face upturned to his—the loveliest, saddest face his eyes had ever gazed on, and from her lips he heard come back one word—

"Farewell!" Forgetting all but that he was leaving his life somewhere in the fierce passions surging behind him, he made a desperate effort to alight from the vehicle, but so dense was the crowd the door would not open. And then angry men seized the rearing horses and forced them out of the way. When he was free again only a sea of flame, in whose depths human figures seemed to march, met his gaze. It had swallowed up the woman's white face. A great transparency, swaying and wavering like a drunken man, thrust itself before his vision and blotted out the scene. Upon it was the legend: "Down with the Yankees!"

CHAPTER XI.

Sorrow unmixed with remorse is the soul's education. The soul of the woman who grieves in silence broadens and deepens, sending down into her own life far-reaching roots and unfolding upward rare auxiliary blossoms that fill the life about her with divine breathings. Such was the experience of Frances Brookin. Thrown back upon herself, conscious of innocence, and feeling always the presence of sorrow, the sorrow of a great disappointment, she saw her girlhood slipping away faster than time itself; for it is true that age is the sum of experience rather than years, and all of life may be lived between the setting and the rising of the sun. But with Frances this change was not the shrinking of the soul into forgetfulness; it was an enlargement of view and perspective in which old headlands assumed smaller proportions. New—imperative duties they seemed, arose and met her; new responsibilities presented themselves; she faced them all bravely, hopefully, lovingly. The fine quality of her soul proved itself in the casting out of all the bitterness which had in the first hours of her misfortune stormed its citadel and raised somber banners there. The victory over self won by this frail girl was so marvelously complete that no cynicism supplanted her innocent faith in the eternal existence of truth and goodness and their ultimate triumph over evil. Her touching acceptance of life in its new aspect was not born in a day. There were weeks of anguish; there were months of dull heartache and loneliness; there were tear-wet pillows and nights of crying out against fate; for the death of an ideal is the saddest death in all the universe, since for this there is no resurrection. The girlish ideal of Frances Brookin was dead at last, and slept under the petals of a faded white rose. Richard Somers was out of her life, out of her heart. The man she loved had never existed, she told herself. He was a dream, a romance, an immaculate conception of a virgin mind. The real man was the unworthy offspring of base, worldly passions; he was nothing to her but a name.

Political events hastened the girl into womanhood and towards that large tolerance with which the strong soul at last invariably encysts the inexplicable and unwelcome facts it cannot avoid. With one leap the fierce south entered the arena of war, and Virginia hills echoed the mingled cheers of contending armies and the thunder of mighty guns. Richmond seemed to have become, as in a day, the center of intrigue and of action. On every side flashed the gold and silver of war's rich trappings. Plumes danced in the breezes and the confederate gray met the eye, rest where it would. From the capitol the banner of a new nation floated proudly, and beneath it echoed the tramp of marching legions, the galloping hoof-beats of horses, through all hours of day and night. Men, in this hitherto staid old southern city, hurried, under the spur of emotions that seemed born of a contagion in the air, and anxious women went about with willing hands to aid in every department they might invade. Among these, her life adjusting itself easily and gratefully to the new demands, was Frances Brookin, the tenderness of her fine face softened and deepened into divine womanliness, the love-ray eloquent in her melting eyes.

Swiftly the holiday side of the war had faded out of view. Agonized silence swallowed up laughter. For the drift was coming in from where the storm of battle raged, wrecks of human forms once freighted with life's rarest merchandise. Soon every hospital, every available space in church and public building and the most spacious of private homes were to have their quota of the wounded, the dying, and the dead. The southern woman was entering upon that field of labor in which she achieved her noblest dignity, her fame its immortality. Foremost among those who first gave their energies, their whole lives to the alleviation of suffering, the inspiration of the hopeless and the despairing, was Frances Brookin. Free to dispose of her time as she would and with an abundant means at her disposal, she made herself a ministering angel wherever a soldier suffered. Day and night she labored, sustained by boundless patriotism and an elation for which she could not account, try as she would. She failed in her self-analysis from ignorance of the fact that a voice that has once spoken to the heart is never quite silent afterwards, and that youth when it buries its dead tramples not the sod above it. Fiery hatred of the invader possessed her, as it did her sisters; bred in the bone and nourished with the mother's milk, it could not be quelled except by years of gentle association and a common cause, but by a strange paradox this bitterness excluded every stained and bloody blue uniform or haggard northern face. Out of the fight, these were ever out of the sweep of a southern woman's vengeance. Upon the suffering prisoners

"ASK WHAT YOU WILL, MY CHILD."

Frances delighted to lavish the tenderness of her nature, now broadened and deepened by its own ministry; and something touchingly human carried her among them, although she was not conscious of it.

For this had come to pass: within the heart of Frances Brookin there lived a fiction, the Richard Somers of her girlish dreams: Richard Somers as she had seen him face to face one night under the burning match, his voice ringing strong and true and tender upon her hearing. Before him, shutting him into the sanctity of her room, she had dropped a veil of iridescent gossamer, and within that room, seen only through the veil, the man lived and reigned and had his kingdom. Through this veil, too, stirred by the breath of the suffering and the dying of his own country, he spoke gently, tenderly to her in the lonely hours of her vigils. The other Richard had been dismissed, not harshly or hastily, not in anger, but sadly—a man unworthy; a man at war with the truth and nobleness of her nature and at war with her people. No one knows how such fictions come about, but the hearts of most women carry them.

And time had helped Frances, for looking back she re-established many vital facts that lessened the sadness of memory; the man must once have been noble—his deeds of mercy and gentleness proved that; innately noble he must have been when she met him, for in the face of a great temptation he had kept his promise to his friend, even to the extent of shutting his eyes against the girl whose arms had been about him, whose lips breathed love for him. And somewhere, despite all the trickery, there was still nobility, for silently he had ridden away, faithful to his friend. He had lain under her hands wounded by the pistol shot, and no woman ever hated a helpless, suffering man. As for his deceptions, his plots, some fearful necessity must have compelled him. The other woman? She had been too base for him—she had been at heart a murderess. She it was who had dragged him down. And was he not caring for the child? Frances would not have admitted it to herself had she realized it, but in the depths of that heart she had forgiven Richard Somers. Her heart was big enough to hold him and all his weakness. Was there a loss of something from her nature? Or was there a gain?

No message had ever come to her from Somers, no good or evil report. None? Yes, just a scrap soon after the war began. From some one, Brodnar, probably, since his name was upon it, she had received a northern paper giving in its war gossip information that Richard Somers had been reinstated in the army and promoted to be captain of artillery.

But one day early in the spring of 1862, when the great federal movement against Richmond was beginning and when every train was bringing in a bloody harvest, she leaned above a wounded enemy. The question so often asked, "To what command do you belong?" drew forth an answer that filled her with excitement. She felt her heart begin to beat madly and her limbs yielding to a sudden excitement.

"Your captain! What is his name?"

"Richard Somers, miss!" How strangely thrilling sounded the name that morning! It was the first time she had heard it spoken since its bearer had said among the flickering shadows of her room: "If to carry in memory the living record of one face will help you, take mine, and with it, right or wrong, the love of Richard Somers." The scene, never dimmed in all the months that had passed, stood forth again, illumined like some strong picture under the swift magic of the lightning. The wounded man saw in her face the glow of its reflection. Triumph shone in her eloquent eyes, a sudden agitation locked the soft white hands.

"Do you know him, miss?"

"I? Yes, yes! Is he well—is he safe?" The man read more than she suspected, and turned his eyes away embarrassed. He was singularly helpless from his wounds, and she had his face at her mercy. Her woman's instinct discerned his thought; her lips moved without sound, but her soul was in the appealing look riveted upon him.

"I think—not," he said, reluctantly, at last. "In fact, I know that he—is wounded."

"Dead!—you mean!" she gasped in the struggle to conceal her anguish.

"No, miss—not exactly that; but badly wounded—very badly, I am afraid."

"Where is he?" She made no effort then to conceal the truth. She was on her knees, her eyes close to his. "In God's name, my friend, tell me—tell me all! Can't you see? can't you see?" She covered her face, unable to continue.

"I can only tell you what I know, miss. He was not dead when I saw him last. Our guns were in the line when the charge came. The line was broken at both flanks, and the yelling confederates were swarming about us. Every horse we had was down, when word came for us to look out for ourselves, and back we went to escape capture—what was left of us. Well, miss, somebody said then that No. 3 had been left loaded—double-shotted with canister; the man at the lanyard had fallen dead just as he lifted his hand to pull. And so the gun stood, ready to be turned upon us. Then Capt. Somers halted and looked about for some one to send back; but I think, miss, he must have seen that the chance was desperate. It was only an instant, and he wouldn't order any man to go; he rushed forward over the 50 yards, reached the gun and seized the cord. He was my captain, and I couldn't leave him there, you know, so I had followed him, too. Then up in front an army of gray seemed to rise as from the ground, and they fired a volley as he pulled on the lanyard. I threw myself on my face and escaped. When I looked up the crowd ahead was disordered and torn, but still coming on; and the captain lay by his gun. I crawled over and laid my hand upon him.

"'Tom,' he said, cool as I am right now, 'I'm gone, but if you get out take the papers in my pocket and my watch to my mother!' I took them as he told me. He fainted, I think, and I was afraid he was dead, but he breathed again. And then, miss—I hadn't tried it since I was a boy—he was lying upon his face, and rolling over, I lay upon him, back to back, locking my arms through his. Turning over suddenly I had him on me a dead weight, and then, somehow, I got up. The whole thing was not a minute long. The confederates gave me a cheer instead of a volley till the boys rushed back to meet us. I got it in both legs then and this shoulder, and down we went. The boys took him and left me, which was right; for four men had died there to save him and I looked like the fifth." Frances was kneeling by the wounded man when he finished, stroking his cheek and brow, her frame trembling.

"Oh, brave! brave!" she cried. "God bless you and keep you—and keep you!" she sank her face beside him, sobbing for joy. "The watch—the papers!" she cried, excitedly, remembering his commission. "Oh, sir, I am his—I am his nearest relative, south. Give them to me, give them to me!"

"In my coat," said the stranger gently, a wan smile upon his pale face. "Don't worry, miss; I guess the captain'll pull through all right." The watch was there, and there too were the letters sealed for his mother ready for delivery if he were picked up dead by friend or foe. No line for her, the woman who loved him once—loved him as she had known him. Upon the inner case of his watch was his own name and address; and still no line for her, the woman who held him so dear. But in the locket dangling from the chain there were two lines cut into the virgin gold:

"Frances, my wife.
"Richmond, April 13th, 1861."

How roseate then grew life for the girl. He remembered! He had kept her words with him night and day. He loved her; he had told no falsehood for the value of her father's wealth. As she stood by the wounded soldier, his eyes resting in sympathy on her, her own seeing nothing but the face in that half-lit room where her shrine was raised, all that was left of resentment vanished out of her heart. When afterward she realized this she was amazed and troubled.

One federal soldier at least in all the hosts that fell into confederate hands had no cause to complain of his nursing. A hospital stretcher bore him to the home of Frances Brookin and into her room. It was her whim, and the stepmother was indulging her whims in those days. There Frances and mammy, with William as a helper and Brodnar as an occasional adviser, lavished on him such care and attention as he had never dreamed was possible, for he was one of those homeless waifs to whom war had promised nothing but excitement and change. It was all a mystery to him, but he questioned not. He accepted the girl's simple statement as to Somers, and was content to let the sun of his prosperity shine on.

One day when the soldier was able to limp about the garden upon his crutches and sit in the shade by the plashing fountain to read in the Dispatch of the great battles being fought around the endangered capital of the confederacy, Frances, bearing the highest testimonials from surgeons and hospital officials as to the conspicuous and devoted service she had rendered, went to the executive mansion and secured admission to the presence of its great chief. Mr. Davis courteously read her papers, and, looking into the earnest face of the fair girl sitting beside him, gave graceful expression to his appreciation of her patriotism.

"Ask what you will, my child," he said, "and if I may consistently grant it your wishes shall be gratified."

"It is the parole of a private soldier," she said, "and a safe-conduct through our lines. He is wounded, but has recovered sufficiently to travel. He will not enter the service again, sir; his injuries incapacitate him."

"And is that all?"

"All!"

PARDONED INDISCRETION.

Magnanimous Act of the German Superior Toward a Gallant Soldier.

The late Field Marshal Count Von Blumenthal, of Germany, once committed an indiscretion that came near ruining his entire life. In July, 1866, Blumenthal wrote a letter to his wife from the seat of war in Bohemia, and handed it over to the military post office staff. The mail was seized by the Austrians, and Bluementhal's letter, which contained severe strictures on Moltke, Prince Friederich Karl and the crown prince, was published in the Viennese newspapers, says a London exchange. The criticism of the crown prince, accusing him of unpunctuality was particularly grave. The Austrians, in thus publishing the letter, were, of course, acting within their rights. But the publication fell like a bomb upon the Prussian headquarters. The crown prince, however, showed no resentment against his chief of the staff, and Moltke also acted with great magnanimity. When the letter was brought under his notice he remarked that "a third party had nothing to do with what a man writes to his wife."

But the third person mentioned in the letter was not of this opinion. Prince Friederich Karl found the newspaper containing the unfortunate letter laid on his writing table. Without saying a word he ordered his horse to be saddled and rode to the king's quarters with the newspaper in his pocket. On his arrival there he learned that the king could not see him immediately, as the crown prince was with him. Prince Friederich Karl waited a long time in the ante-room. At last the door of the king's room opened and the crown prince stepped out, flushed and excited, but beaming with satisfaction. As soon as he saw Prince Friederich Karl he went to him and said: "I can give you some information which you will doubtless hear as gladly as I give it to you. The king has pardoned Gen. Blumenthal the imprudent letter which he wrote." To which Prince Karl made a wry face, put in his pocket the newspaper he had held in his hand, and walked off with the crown prince.

When Dean Gott Forgot.

Dr. Gott, who has recently announced his intention of resigning the bishopric of Truro, was formerly the dean of Worcester; his absent-mindedness was so notorious that he earned for himself the sobriquet of "Dean Forget." He himself on one occasion invited a number of friends to dinner, and a short time before the dinner hour he suggested that a stroll through the grounds would be a good appetizer. After spending a quarter of an hour or so admiring the greenhouses, etc., they suddenly came across a small door in the wall. "Ah," said the dean to his astonished guests, "this will be a much shorter way home for you than going by the front way"—and, all unconscious of his invitation, he opened the door and bowed them out!

Changes In Revenue Law

The Reduced War Taxes as They Go Into Effect July 1

Beginning with July 1 certain changes in the war revenue bill will go into effect. The original measure, it will be remembered, was enacted by congress June 13, 1898, just after the breaking out of the Spanish-American war. Just prior to adjournment the last congress made certain amendments to this act. Perhaps the changes that will be most noticed by the general public will be the removal of the tax on bank checks and drafts, sight drafts, money orders, leases, mortgages or conveyances in trust, promissory notes and telegraph messages. The tax on bankers of $50 for $25,000 and $2 for each additional $1,000 is to be retained. So also is the tax on stock brokers of $50, on pawnbrokers of $20, on commercial brokers of $20 and on custom house brokers of $10.

Proprietors of theaters and like places of amusement and proprietors of circuses are still to be taxed $100. The tax of $10 on all other exhibitions is also retained. The new law made no change in the tax of $5 levied on each bowling alley or billiard table.

Tobacco and snuff come in for a discount of 20 per cent. on the old tax. There is a distinction drawn in the case of cigarettes. The tax on those of a certain grade and weight is retained; on others the tax is reduced. Dealers in tobacco and leaf tobacco, and manufacturers of tobacco and of cigars, will be taxed according to the rate now prevailing.

On bonds, debentures, etc., and on certificates of stock of original issue the tax of 5 cents per $100 is to be retained. In the provision taxing transfers of stock 2 cents per $100, the same tax is extended to bucket shops. The tax on sales of products at exchanges is cut in half. In the case of sales of merchandise in actual course of transportation the tax is entirely removed. The tax on all forms of insurance is repealed.

Proprietary medicines, perfumery and cosmetics and chewing gum are all to be exempted from taxation. Petroleum and sugar refineries are still to pay one-fourth per cent. of their gross receipts in excess of $250,000. Each sleeping and parlor car ticket will continue to pay 1 cent to the government. Legacies of charitable institutions, religious, literary or educational in character, will not be taxed after July 1.

Epitaph and Pun.

One evening at a small party which included the two friends, Douglas Jerrold and Charles Knight, the author-publisher, the talk turned on epitaphs.

As they were walking home together, Knight, half lightly and half in earnest, asked the wit to write his epitaph for him. Jerrold made no answer, but when they came to the parting of their ways, he suddenly said:

"I've got your epitaph."

"Well, what is it?"

Traffic in Russia.

Early in April there were lying at the stations of three Russian railroads, waiting to be forwarded, 27,000 car loads of grain, equal to about 12,000,000 bushels, much of which had been waiting for months. Complaints that railroads are not able to handle their traffic are common in Russia.

Mother and Queen.

Queen Victoria always made it a point to keep the religious instruction of her children as much as possible in her own hands. Once when the archdeacon of London was catechizing the young princes, he said:

"Your governess deserves great credit for instructing you so thoroughly."

At which the youngsters piped up:

"It is mamma who teaches us our catechism!"

It is not perhaps generally known that the queen occasionally taught a Bible class for the children of those in attendance at Windsor palace.—London Beacon.

Free Medical Help.

In England 972,000 people a year receive free medical attendance, compared with only 230,000 in France, and the cost of these French invalids is only £58,000, compared with £150,000 spent in medical relief in Ireland.

WOMAN AND HOME

MEN'S GARB FOR WOMEN.

Dr. Mary Walker Insists That Present Feminine Styles Are Unhealthful and Immoral.

Dr. Mary Walker for well-nigh 45 years has preached dress reform for women. Her ideas, as much as her peculiar adoption of male attire, have made of her a national character. She is now past 60 years of age, but is more than ever committed to her ideas.

In a recent article published by the Chicago American she advocates the adoption by women of male attire for the following reasons:

Did you ever watch Flora MacFlimsy stepping on or off a car? Could there be anything more grotesque? As the car approaches she grabs frantically a bunch of dry goods which has trailed for blocks behind her in the mud. Swishing them about her until she has bound up her knees as if in a vise, she essays to step into the car. But the yards of lingerie and dress hamper her. It requires the greatest effort to mount the step. It is oftentimes accompanied with the sacrifice of her expensive costume.

The other day as I left a Broadway car behind a Flora, I inadvertently stepped upon her ladyship's train. The rip of the sheeny silk brought terror even to me. She glared at me ferociously.

"I will pardon you," I said, "for taking up so much room; it seems hardly necessary that you should have a dry goods roll trailing behind you."

Bind your waists in steel splints and what happens? Congestion of the stomach and intestines. Congestion begets inflammation and the latter excitement of the part inflamed.

In my common sense attire I can travel faster than any other woman. My form of dress has to overcome a lighter atmospheric pressure, less specific gravity.

I can swing in and out of a car in less time than it takes Flora MacFlimsy to gather her skirts daintily.

There should be no sex in dress. A woman should not be forever proclaiming as from a sign board: "I am a woman!" Why is it necessary for her constantly to conjure up thoughts of sex difference? I think it immoral.

DR. MARY WALKER.
(Has Preached Dress Reform for Women for Nearly 45 Years.)

To-day we call love a passion. True love is a quality of the mind, not of the body. Until men love with the mind woman will not have her right place in the world. Passion is brutal; love is divine!

Does the modern form of evening dress—undress I call it—appeal to the passions or the souls of men? Do the yards of dainty laces, the variegated hosiery, the thousand and one whatnots of the modern maiden's gown appeal to the purer or baser idea?

There would be fewer crimes against women if the suggestive in woman's wardrobe were eliminated. Modern forms of dress accentuate rather than subdue these evil suggestions. "What is most daring?" is the question with the modiste, not "What is purest?"

A woman's charms of person and mind should be her store of wealth. At present her physical charms are paraded before the world that all may see. She does not so parade her beauties of mind.

Sometimes her physical charms are counterfeit; they are used as a snare. She cannot counterfeit her mental qualities.

In trousers, waistcoat and frock coat woman would find protection that she much needs. She would be freer of motion and limb, would have better health, a cleaner mental condition and be man's superior in the things she should have most of—of purity of body and mind.

Soner or later my ideas will bear full fruit. The wheels of progress and intellectuality move slowly. I do not expect to live long enough to see my ideas of dress the vogue. I shall have to die; then the seed that I have sown will ripen and grow and bud and bloom—and I? Well, perchance I may be forgotten. It matters not so long as I have been even a means to a good and

NEW TYPE OF BEAUTY.

Although But Fifteen Years of Age Miss Nesbit Is Pronounced a Rara Avis by Artists.

Philadelphians are raving over a new type of American beauty exemplified in the person of Miss Evelyn Florence Nesbit, of that city. She is but 15 years old and two years ago went to Philadelphia from Pittsburgh with her widowed mother. Her father was the late Winfield Scott Nesbit, one of the foremost lawyers of Pittsburgh. Her mother, Evelyn Florence McKenzie, comes of a distinguished southern family, and she was a celebrated belle in her youth. It was not long after her appearance in Philadelphia that the beauty of Miss Nebit was remarked by many of the leading artists and sculptors. Already her face has been put on canvas by such painters as Carl Blenner, Carroll Beckwith, Levy and Irving Wiles Church.

It is Ryland W. Phillips, the artist photographer, who claims the honor of having first discovered this new beauty. Last October he arranged to have her come to his studio and pose for several pictures, which were later placed on exhibition at the Photographical society and created wide discussion. In speaking of Miss Nesbit, Mr. Phillips said:

"Miss Nesbit has a mobile face, yet she can change her personality in looks, gesture and effect quicker than anyone else I have ever seen. She can change her whole expression instantly from sorrow to gladness, every feature adding to the total transformation. Miss Nesbit is a great beauty. She has a splendidly developed head and a face showing unusual character. About her forehead there are lines of exceptional beauty denoting great intellectual power."

Besides her beauty, Miss Nesbit is endowed with a gift of dramatic talent and emotional capacity sufficient to warrant her in hoping to attain success on the stage, for which she is now preparing herself.

HOW TO BE HEALTHY.

Take an Air Bath Every Morning and Every Night for the Benefit of Muscles and Lungs.

Two baths, say the newest health authorities, should be taken every morning.

For no less important than the tub bath for the body is the air bath for the lungs.

Perhaps you have never taken an air bath and mistakenly fancy that it may be necessary to turn yourself inside out to accomplish it.

On the contrary, the directions are extremely simple.

You need no apparatus and it takes but a moment's time and very little effort.

Every night the lungs become filled up with impure air and more or less poisonous gases. A person may go all day without ridding his lungs of these impurities. Therefore it is as important to bathe the lungs every day as the body.

Few people know how to breathe correctly. The lungs are not filled by merely expanding the upper portions of the chest and raising the shoulders. The entire front of the chest should be forced out as one inhales.

There are a number of exercises for expanding the chest which you can practice in your room as well as in a gymnasium. A doorway will serve as well as the most complicated gymnasium apparatus. A narrow doorway is preferred. Stand directly under the frame and place the hands flat on the doorcasing, the tips of the fingers coming at the height of the shoulders. Walk through the door without removing the hands until you are arms' length away. This draws back the shoulders and brings the important chest muscles into play. Try this for 15 minutes every night and morning. It will help to wake you up when you rise and help you to get to sleep quickly when you go to bed.

Another plan is to expand the chest the same way before an open window. Stand about a foot back from the window, placing the hands on the window frame on either side at the height of the shoulders. Without moving the feet, let the body swing forward as far as possible and return to a perpendicular position. Practice this about 20 times night and morning at intervals of ten seconds.

Another exercise bath for the arms and lungs is to stand with the heels together and take a deep breath. Then stretch one arm backward and upward, then the other, meanwhile moving the body backward, forward and to the sides while expelling the breath slowly.—N. Y. World.

THE FARMING WORLD

LARGE DIPPING PLANT.

Texas Has a Cattle Bath Which, for Size and Effectiveness, Is Without an Equal.

The government bureau of animal industry has recently, through a series of experiments, solved an important problem bearing upon the health of cattle. It is the establishment of large dipping vats in the center of the stock raising districts of Texas and the south for immersing cattle in a chemical solution which effectually destroys parasites infesting their skin. When cattle from a diseased territory are to be shipped into a non-infected district it is important that they be freed from all pests. The best and only remedy has now been found to pass the cattle through a disinfecting bath, or, as it is termed, to "dip" them. "Dipping" infected cattle into a saturated solution of sulphur in extra dynamo oil will destroy all parasites.

Recently the Fort Worth Stock Yards company built a large dipping plant and placed it at the disposal of the bureau of animal industry, where the first demonstrations have been carried out. One of the problems in regard to the bath was to find a chemical oil which would not have an irritating and heating effect upon the cattle. For this purpose a number of samples of various lubricating oils were examined, and one of light specific gravity, called extra dynamo, was selected.

A train load of 311 cattle was dipped in a large vat of the stock yard in July last. These cattle were raised and bred in Texas, and were infested with Texas fever parasites at the time of the dipping. The weather, which had been remarkably cool up to this time, suddenly changed to intense heat, and, it being desirable not to expose the cattle to the sun immediately after the dipping, they were not passed through the vat until after sunset. By 11 o'clock at night all had gone through without a single accident, and they were at once loaded on clean cars, bedded with hay and shipped to Rockford, Ill. Of the 311 cattle all save four arrived in good condition at their destination. The casualties were principally caused by extreme heat during the first day of travel and the confinement incident to shipment. A careful examination showed that not a single parasite had survived. Most of the cattle showed absolutely no indications of having been dipped, the skin being soft and flexible in all cases.—N. Y. Herald.

FEEDING SOAKED CORN.

When Combined with Good Pasturage It Affords an Ideal Summer Ration for Pigs.

There appears to be quite a difference in the opinions of breeders in regard to feeding soaked corn to the spring pigs during the summer time when running on the pasture and at a time when the old corn is hard and sometimes difficult for young pigs to eat. I have a decided preference for soaked corn, getting the best growth and better results than from feeding the dry corn. My plan is as follows: I get two barrels that will hold water, and then pour in one the quantity of corn that I wish the pigs to eat during the next 36 hours' time, then I add to the corn clean water until it is covered some three inches, leaving it to soak for 36 hours. I then commence feeding from the first barrel, and at the same time fill the second barrel, which will be ready to commence on when the first is fed out. After the first is fed out, clean the barrel and fill it as before. This is a clean, easy digested, wholesome food. The corn has lost nothing by the operation, only the heated or burning feature of it, which is injurious to all young, growing stock when fed to any extent. You can feed this kind of food without danger of splashing it over you, which is not the case with slop made from mill feeds, which not only gets on your clothes, but the pigs as well in feeding. This manner of feeding will make rapid growth, and when on good pasture a complete ration.—J. G. Trueblood, in Swineherd.

Windmill Power Is Cheap.

A windmill will pump water for stock, irrigation and all other purposes; it will turn the wheels of the mill; it will wash, churn, turn the grindstone, turning lathe, cider press, etc.; it will grind bones for the hens, saw wood, chop feed, shred fodder, shell corn, run fanning mill—there is no end of the jobs it can be set to work on if properly harnessed. Without a single exception the windmill is the cheapest power nature puts into the hands of man. Every farm should have a good, standard made windmill.—Farm Journal.

How He Saved.

Corporal William L. Dawson, just returned from soldiering in the Philippines, walked into a Salina real estate office the other day and planked down the cash for an 80-acre farm.

He had saved $2,000 in less than three years of army life, and the item reminds us of the remark made by a Topeka soldier boy, having no reference, however, to Corporal Dawson:

"You say you can't understand how a soldier can bring back from the Philippines more than his entire pay amounted to?" said the Topeka boy. "Well, ain't you going to allow anything for poker?"—Kansas City Journal.

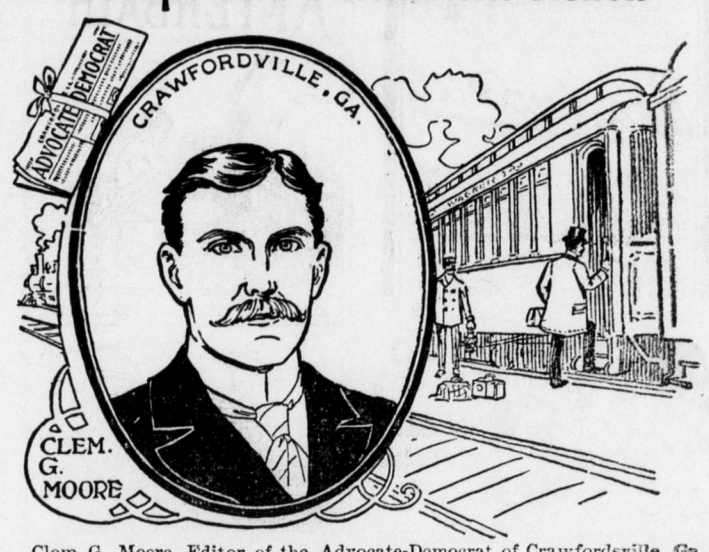
FOR SYSTEMIC CATARRH

Peculiar to Summer Pe-ru-na Gives Prompt and Permanent Relief.



Clem G. Moore, Editor of the Advocate-Democrat of Crawfordsville, Ga., writes the Peruna Medicine Company as follows:

Gentlemen—"After four years of intense suffering, caused by systemic catarrh, which I contracted while editing, and traveling for my paper, I have been greatly relieved by the use of Peruna. I gave up work during these years of torture, tried various remedies and many doctors, but all the permanent relief came from the use of Peruna. My trouble was called indigestion, but it was catarrh all through my system, and a few bottles of Peruna made me feel like another person, noting the improvement after I had used the first bottle. Peruna is undoubtedly the best catarrh remedy ever compounded.—Clem G. Moore.

Captain Percy W. Moss, Paragould, Ark., says: "I think Peruna is undoubtedly the finest and surest catarrh cure ever prepared, and it has taken but two bottles to convince me of this fact."

Judge Wm. T. Zenor, of Washington, D. C., writes from 213 N. Capital Street, Washington, D. C.:

"I take pleasure in saying that I can cheerfully recommend the use of Peruna as a remedy for catarrhal trouble and a most excellent tonic for general conditions."—Wm. T. Zenor.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Read It in His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known, German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio, is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its colums, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by L. Taggart.
